Fundamentals of Anthropological Theory

Course Number: 240B
Semester: Spring
Year: 2015
Location: 221 Kroeber
Instructor: Yurchak
Units: 4
Time: TuTh 2:00 - 5:00
CCN: 03104

section time and location in the Schedule of Classes

Anthropological theory and practice--following the rest of the world--have been undergoing important restructuring in the past decade.

The course is organized to reflect this fact. We will begin by looking at recent debates about the nature and purpose of anthropology. This will provide a starting point for reading a series of classic ethnographies in new ways as well as examining some dimensions of the current research agenda in cultural anthropology.